Course Description

This course for veterinarians, technicians, and practice managers provides useful advice on keeping your practice up-to-date with the new technologies available today. With the current economic times, investing in a new technology can be a tough decision. Before you invest in equipment and training, we will provide an overview of a few technologies that could enhance your practice, and will explain how they could be financially beneficial to you. Technologies to be covered include ultrasonography, laparoscopic surgery, MRI and laser surgery.
